'Brainwashed' Mail Good, Says Romney

NEW YORK (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney says his mail has been "overwhelmingly favorable" on his charge that he had been "brainwashed" in Vietnam.

Romney, on the fifth day of a 19-day survey of urban problems around the nation, visited Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, a predominantly Negro area, Friday.

Today he tours Harlem then goes on to Sullivan County.

Damage Feared

Romney, an undeclared candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, had said that his original support for U.S. involvement in Vietnam was due to a "brainwashing" he got during a visit to the war area during 1965.

Agreed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver said Friday Michigan Gov. George Romney was directing his criticism toward Congress when he claimed too many federal anti-poverty programs are run on an uncertain "start-and-stop" basis.

Shriver, head of the federal anti-poverty program, said the Office of Economic Opportunity also believes programs are hurt when they are started, then stopped because of funds cut off.

"He is correct and we agree with him," Shriver told a news conference. "But that's not the OEO's fault."

"Gov. Romney is criticizing congressional cuts and under-financing. He's on our side. Romney was reported to have made these remarks about the anti-poverty program while touring Rochester, N.Y., Thursday.

Some members of his own party feared his words might damage him politically.

But Romney told newsmen, in an informal question and answer session while riding a bus through New York, that his mail showed overwhelming support for his statement. He cited no specific figures.

Concerning four Democrats who came from Michigan to urge the governor to return to his own state, where teachers and auto workers are on strike, Romney said he was in constant touch with the situations in Detroit and elsewhere, but that there was nothing he could do that was not being done.

Time To Act

"I will interrupt this trip at any point," Romney said, if aides tell him he is needed.

Concerning urban domestic violence against Vietnam veterans, Romney declared: "A lot of people are very frustrated and bitter, and it's time to do something because there's tinder in the cities that will make Vietnam look like child's play, and I mean just that."

Romney, who insists his trip is nonpolitical, did a great deal of hand-shaking during his tour Friday, climbed ladders to peer into rehabilitation work and posed for photographers wielding a paint brush at a project.

Asset?

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Leonard Hall, the campaign manager of Michigan Gov. George Romney said Friday that Romney's recent charge he was "brainwashed" by American officials in Vietnam may turn out to be a political asset instead of a liability.

Hall said the charge "could encourage public question of the credibility" of statements made by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the Vietnam war.

Hall made the remarks after meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Eisenhower's office on the Gettysburg College campus.

Robber Fed Cat

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The man who took about $800 in jewelry from the home of Mary Donahue wasn't exactly a cat burglar, but he was certainly a lover of felines.

Mrs. Donahue told police the burglar apparently fed her cat before he left.

3 Sailors Dead; 59 Wounded In Delta Battling

SAIGON (AP) — A slushy two-day running battle through Mekong delta swamplands subsided today with the U.S. Navy suffering its highest combat casualties of the war and a battered Viet Cong battalion melting into marshes and bamboo forests.

Battle reports listed 70 Viet Cong dead in the fight and said a Navy gunboat force took a beating when it landed Army infantrymen on the Rach Ba River at dawn Friday.

Firing from hidden positions on the river bank, guerrillas cut into the gunboats and landing craft with machine guns and recoilless rifles. Three sailors were killed and 59 wounded in the battle, with most U.S. casualties coming in the first furious minutes.

Over-all, the 2,000-man U.S. river assault force lost nine dead and 104 wounded in twisting canals and muddy ground 45 miles south of Saigon, before the crack Viet Cong 263rd Battalion scattered.

Guerrillas Hit Back

The fleeing guerrillas hit back at pursuing U.S. troops with mortars and sniper fire.

Associated Press correspondent George Esper reported from the U.S. riverine force headquarters that Red gunfire damaged nine Navy armored troop carriers, three armored monitors and the command communications vessel. All were still under their own power when the fight ended, however.

Apart from aircraft carrier disasters such as the one that killed 132 aboard the Forrestal, the casualties and damage were the worst suffered by the Navy in Vietnam. It was by far the fiercest fight for the riverine force since it began operating in the delta early this year.

The riverine force is made up of Navy barracks ships and Army infantry units. The troops are moved through the delta's myriad waterways in specially adapted, shallow-draft landing boats and armored monitors bristling with mortars and small cannons.

In the hottest fighting Friday U.S. jet fighters swept down on the Communists, churning the marshes with bombs and rockets.

Pilot Rescued

Guerrilla gunfire brought down an F100 Super Sabre jet but the pilot ejected and was picked up by a helicopter. It was the 20th U.S. combat plane announced as shot down in the South.

On Wednesday GIs pressing the delta sweep, code named Coronado 5, pinned down the Viet Cong's elite 54th Battalion in the swampy region and killed 134.

Heavy fighting between South Vietnamese government troops and more Viet Cong was reported today just 10 miles from the Coronado 5 action.

Hurricane Doria Turns Killer; Hits U.S. Coast

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Deadly Hurricane Doria screamed today, claiming her first lives while still offshore.

A Boston, Mass. mother drowned and her two children were missing early today after the storm's winds and high seas whipped their 38-foot cabin cruiser out of control through the night off Ocean City, N.J.

The vessel's owner, Robert Wood, 29, was hospitalized in shock and incoherent after the boat finally pulled ashore near Brigantine Shoals.

Meanwhile, Doria slowed her forward speed to 10 miles an hour, and was expected to cross the coast below Wallops Island, Va., about 1 p.m.

Flee To High Ground
Residents of low lying areas in the path of the unpredictable storm fled to higher ground, but major flooding at mid-morning was reported only at Ocean City, Md., where water was 3 feet deep in some streets.

Winds near the center of the storm were estimated at about 80 m.p.h., and coastal points were reporting 60 m.p.h. gusts by mid-morning.

At 10 a.m. EDT, the center of Hurricane Doria was located about 45 miles east southeast of Wallops Island moving west southwest.

A Navy reconnaissance plane from Norfolk reported that the eye of the storm was rather poorly defined. Glen V. Sachse, meteorologist at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Norfolk, said Doria was expected to weaken rapidly after crossing the Delmarva Peninsula between the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay.

NASA Vans Move
During the night Doria had been reported moving westward at 15 m.p.h., and coastal points were grateful for her slowdown.

At Wallops Island, Meteorological rocket station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, radar vans and mobile launchers were moved inland.

Joe Robbins, administrative officer for NASA at Wallops, said the installation was expected to be safe from serious flooding.

He said high tide at Wallops at 7 a.m. EDT was only one foot above normal. The vulnerable areas of the installation, he said, were 9 feet above mean high tide.

Robbins said a skeleton crew of electricians would remain on the island as long as possible. Planes from the Langley Air Force Base and naval air stations in Virginia and Maryland were flown inland in advance of the storm. Atlantic Fleet headquarters said all ships in Hampton Roads doubled their mooring lines.

The storm was one of a trio of hurricanes in the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico, and at the same time a typhoon, named Sara, lashed Wake Island in the mid-Pacific with winds reaching 140 miles per hour.

Property damage was reported on Wake Island but there were no immediate reports of injuries. The 2,000 residents had advance warning and took cover.

The Miami Weather Bureau said these were the first such multiple storms since 1961 when four hurricanes were swirling at one time. The last twin Atlantic hurricanes were in 1955, Connie and Diane.

In Wilmington, N.C., two women and three men were rescued after their ketch was caught in Doria while she was still a tropical storm. They were brought safely to shore Friday. The rescued party were William Schnirring, 68, his wife Alice, 54, of Larchmont, N.Y.; Schnirring's son-in-law, Lee Van Perk, 24, his wife Suzie, of New York City and the skipper, Ivan C. Fox of Bermuda.

Teachers Dodge Court Order By Resigning Jobs

DETROIT (AP) — Contract bargaining sessions continued in many of Michigan's 17 unsettled school districts today under an ever-increasing threat of court injunctions and teacher resignations.

In Detroit, where 11,000 striking teachers have maintained a "no contract, no work" stand and kept 300,000 pupils out of school for more than a week, teachers planned to vote Sunday on whether to accept binding arbitration on their salary dispute with the school board.

The ruling upset the conviction of William Duncan of Dearborn for not wearing a helmet. Kaufman said the law does not protect the welfare of the general public and so cannot be imposed on the individual cyclist.

Kaufman's ruling, however, does not nullify the law, which only the State Supreme Court can do.

Mandatory Pay Decision Gives $158 Millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads are unhappy and union leaders quietly mollified in the wake of a compulsory $158 million wage package handed down by a White House board.

"We conclude that it is clearly inflationary," said chief railroad negotiator John Hiltz Jr. of the two-year package covering 137,000 shopcraft workers.

The wage hikes, endorsed by President Johnson, gave six railroad unions much of their demands. The board announced its recommendations Friday.

The board, created by Congress in a special law to halt a nationwide strike, set wage increases of 11 per cent plus 20 cents an hour in extra skill pay increases for about 100,000 of the workers.

The raises will become mandatory in 30 days unless there is a voluntary agreement, viewed as an extremely slim prospect.

The initial two-year cost to the railroads was cut down somewhat by scattering the wage hike over the two-year period.

Now Average $2.90

"We're not jumping up and down in glee," said a union source, "but we're better off than we were." The unions remained officially silent.

The shopcraft workers now average $2.90 per hour and skilled men $3.05.

The sticky case, rife with political implications, marked the first time in history that Congress took a direct hand in setting wages except for general wartime wage-price controls.

Johnson praised the board's recommendations as "one of the finest products" ever to come from a presidential board. Then he slipped swiftly out of the White House Fish Room, leaving the explanations to Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the five-man board.

Morse, who aroused organized labor's wrath by sponsoring the special law to halt the two-day nationwide walkout in July, called the wage recommendations "a much to be desired public service in this time of great national emergency."

Strike Forbidden

The law forbids any further strike until Jan. 1, 1969.

Although organized labor loathes compulsory settlements, the fact AFL-CIO President George Meany was in the White House board and signed the unanimous report was expected to soften labor political reaction to Morse and the Johnson administration.

Meany's approval also bolstered the evidence the wage hikes represented a victory for the unions.

The only dissenting voice on the board was Frederick R. Kappel, retired board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Corp., who signed the unanimous report but backed on "serious reservations."

Kappel opposed the amount of the skill increases, which will go into effect 5 cents at a time over four six-month intervals.

Negro Teacher Is Freed Of Girl's Fondling Charge

BALDWIN, N.Y. (AP) — Maurice G. McNeill, the only Negro teacher at suburban Baldwin High School, has been acquitted by the Board of Education of charges that he fondled a 16-year-old white girl student.

An audience of about 300 persons at the high school auditorium stood up and cheered Friday when board President Henry C. Bang announced the decision. Many surged forward and surrounded McNeill, hugging him and shaking his hand.

The board also ordered the 36-year-old biology teacher reinstated with back pay. He was suspended without pay July 25 after the student, Susan Schaffner, accused him of molesting her on July 7 while she was helping with clerical work in his office.

"I cannot express in words the support I have received from the Baldwin community. People from all over the country came to my support," said McNeill.

Ruppe Claims Politics Stifle Lakes Region

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Philip E. Ruppe, R-Mich., has charged that the defeat in Congress of an amendment to channel $3 million in Appalachia bill funds to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission is "one more example of a partisan attempt to immobilize" the commission.

Under the amendment sponsored by Rep. Guy VanderJagt, R-Mich., the money would be provided to states on a matching basis to bring the alewife problem under control by developing the predator salmon fishery program, Ruppe said.

A motion to return the bill to committee with instructions to include the amendment was defeated by the House 184-176 Thursday night.

"The reason is simple," Ruppe said. "The Republican governors of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota are co-chairmen of the commission and there is a partisan fear that they will get credit for the success of the program."

Ruppe added that "several powerful members of the majority party do not want the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission to succeed."

Johnson Asks Action On Gun Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is pushing House Democratic leaders to get his gun control proposals rolling, but it appears Republicans are in the driver's seat.

Johnson asked Speaker John W. McCormack Friday to get some action on the bill, citing an upswing in the use of firearms in dangerous crimes and declaring: "A civilized nation cannot allow this armed terror to continue."

McCormack promised to try, but he put his finger on the trouble spot when he said "if the bill comes out of the Judiciary Committee the House will pass it."

The bill has been in the committee since early spring when soundings by Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., showed there was little or no chance of moving it without Republican support.

GOP Holds Key

And Republicans, who have made crime and its control a major political issue for next year's elections, have displayed little interest in giving such support.

Johnson is backing a bill to tighten up licensing requirements for firearms dealers and manufacturers, prohibit mail order sales of all firearms and ban sales of handguns to anyone living outside the state in which the purchase is made.

It is strenuously opposed by the firearms industry, sportsmen's groups and the National Rifle Association.

The summer's Negro riots—with their widespread sniping incidents—have increased sentiment for some kind of gun control.

State Neglects Heritage: Hare

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare, claiming Michigan is neglecting its historic heritage, has called on the Legislature to put all the state's historical activities under his supervision.

He told a special House committee on constitutional implementation that, although the State Historical Commission is under the Department of State, responsibility for restoring and preserving lands of historic interest lies with the Conservation Department.

Under the current setup, he said, "Michigan is unique among the more populous states in neglecting to promote its historical heritage."

He cited an estimate that a historical site which attracts 24 tourists a day has the same economic benefits as an industry with a $100,000-a-year payroll.

Hare also suggested that his department's responsibilities for regulating commercial vehicles be transferred to the Public Service Commission and that enforcement of boat registration laws be transferred to the Conservation Department.

More Liberal Creel Limit Set On Coho Salmon

The Conservation Commission last week adopted liberalized coho salmon creel limits to clear up confusion among anglers and to let them keep more of the big fish they are hooking in northern Lake Michigan.

The new creel quotas, which took effect Sept. 11 and last through Nov. 30, allow fishermen a daily catch of 10 pounds and one coho, or two coho both weighing over 10 pounds. Also as changed, anglers may have two days' catch in their possession rather than the one day limit that stood before.

However, coho fishermen may not have more than one day's catch aboard their boats.

As approved by the Commission, the new coho creel limits are completely separated from the former combination quotas which also covered trout. Those original limits, still in effect for trout, set daily and possession quotas of five fish from all lakes, including the Great Lakes, and 10 fish from inland streams.

Grandson Of Escanaba Woman Dies In Vietnam

Army Pvt. Roy Leach, 19, grandson of Mrs. George Leach of 1522 Stephenson Ave., was killed in combat in Vietnam Aug. 30.

Born in Lathrop, Pvt. Leach resided most of his life in Decatur, Ga. He had been in the Army nine months and in Vietnam three weeks when he was fatally wounded.

Survivors are his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Allen of Decatur and two brothers, Lance Corp. John Leach of the U. S. Marines and Richard Leach of Decatur.

Handguns Only

It would deal only with handguns, leaving rifles and shotguns alone. Its licensing provisions would be less stringent than the administration proposal.

It would require a purchaser who wants to buy a gun in another state to submit an affidavit to the dealer swearing he is over 20 and has not been convicted of a crime, been a drug addict or judged mentally defective.

The affidavit would be sent to the state or local law enforcement agency and the dealer would have to wait seven days before making the sale.

Encourage States

Both versions thus seek to make it difficult to buy handguns in another state but the administration claims its bill would be far more effective and would encourage states to enact controls of their own.

Celler, an old hand at compromising, has been trying to work out some agreement with Republicans on a bill combining features from both measures. But nothing has come of the effort so far.

Republicans showed they can pretty well call the shots by the way they rewrote Johnson's main crime control bill on the House floor last month and if a gun control bill is to pass, it would bear the GOP stamp, too.

Story Distorts Pollution, State Officials Claim

LANSING (AP)—State Health Department and Water Resources Commission officials have criticized a "distorted" recent Chicago newspaper article concerning water pollution cleanup efforts in Petoskey and Harbor Springs.

Spokesmen for the two agencies said the two-page story last week in the Chicago Tribune gave the impression that the two Northern Michigan communities were major contributors to Lake Michigan pollution problems.

The story also left the impression that the two cities would be cited for violations of state law unless they improved sewage treatment facilities, they charged.

"There would be no orders issued arbitrarily," said John Vought of the State Health Department in explaining procedures under recently adopted pollution control regulations.

Vought said operation of city sewage plants is analyzed by the department and, if found lacking, recommendations for improvement are made and a "reasonable amount of time" given for compliance with regulations.

Club 314 Opens Monday Night

Club 314, Escanaba's Youth Center, will open for its 31st season Monday, Sept. 18, it was announced today by Paul Vardigan, acting director of recreation. The public is invited to attend the opening and become familiar with the facilities and activities available to the youth of the area.

Last year's schedule will be revised to allow youngsters of high school age use of the Center on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30, and on Saturday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 after the football season. Detroit Police In NRA: 400 Join To Buy Riot Duty Arms

DETROIT (AP) — Some 400 Detroit policemen reportedly have had to join the National Rifle Association (NRA) in order to buy low-cost, government surplus carbines for use in case of riots.

Although the Detroit Police Officers Association says the weapons are being purchased by individual officers for riot protection, the purchasers are obligated to certify they intend to use them "in civilian marksmanship programs which promote practice in the use of rifled arms."

The report was published by the Detroit Free Press in its Friday edition.

A spokesman for the Army Material Command was quoted as saying certificates signed by purchasers were a "subterfuge."

About 400 Detroit policemen have reportedly joined the NRA to be eligible to purchase the weapons. Carl Parsell, president of the Detroit Police Officers Association (DPOA), said up to 2,000 more applications are being worked on at the present time.

"The Only Way"

"The Detroit police officers feel they were not adequately armed in the riot area, and this is the only way we can do it," Parsell said.

"The responsibility lies with the (city) administration, but lacking their action we have to do something."

Parsell said that although he didn't think policemen should have to go through the NRA to get the carbines, "we'll have to take them under any circumstances."

Parsell said the Army sells the carbines for $20 each to individuals through the NRA, compared to a cost of about $60 each through commercial outlets.

Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said the department is "working on" the problem of having enough guns available for similar emergencies in the future.

"No Objection"

"Meanwhile, I have no objection to the men getting bargains on rifles," said Girardin.

With half of the city's 4,400-man police force on duty at the same time during the riot, his men had to borrow hundreds of rifles from gun stores.

"We had around 700 rifles and shotguns, probably one of the largest inventories in the country, but that's not enough for full-scale warfare," said the commissioner.

Girardin said the shotguns were not useful because they did not have enough range for fighting snipers.

A federal law adopted nearly 45 years ago under which the Army promotes rifle competitions and marksmanship, provides for "the sale to members of the NRA, at cost, and the issue to clubs organized for practice with rifled arms. . . of arms, ammunition, targets, and other supplies and appliances necessary to target practice."

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., a longtime NRA member, said he wrote Parsell offering to expedite membership applications.

Parsell reportedly insisted that the police should not have to join the NRA and that the police department itself should be able to purchase carbines from Army surplus stores.

"The only way to get these weapons," Dingell said, "is through the NRA. The NRA is the only outfit that has carbines."

Volunteer Help Asked At Rapid River

Volunteer help is being asked to assist with erecting a guard rail at the Rapid River Schools. The guard rail will be installed in the parking area in front of both the elementary and high schools. Gideon Sloan of Gladstone will dig the holes for the guard rail posts.

Volunteers are asked to be at the school Wednesday Sept. 20, 6 p.m. Shovels or a pry bar will be needed.

Rapid River School Board has approved action to blacktop the school's playground area with Northern Asphalt of Escanaba receiving the bid. The blacktopping will be completed this month. Plans have been made to reseed the front lawns of the schools in the spring of 1968.

Trout Planting Result Studied

Johnson and Sporey Lakes in the Gwinn area are the sites of an experiment by the Michigan Conservation Department to try to determine how it can get the most out of its fish planting dollar.

The experiment involves planting of five varieties of trout of different sizes over a five-month period in an effort to learn what are the best varieties, sizes and times for stocking trout lakes.

A total of 25,000 fingerling and 1,000 yearling trout will have been planted in each lake from June through next month to provide data for the experiment, which will continue through next summer.

A creel census clerk will work at each lake to gather information on numbers of anglers and kinds and sizes of trout taken.

Both Johnson and Sporey Lakes are open during the special fall season that extends through November and the winter ice fishing season that runs from December through February. The creel census began Sept. 1 and will continue through next summer.

Henry Vondett, Marquette, regional fisheries supervisor, said the department is particularly interested in finding out what sort of returns will come from the planting of fingerlings (any trout under eight inches in length) in relation to hatchery costs. If it can be demonstrated that reasonably high returns result from planting fish of two inches in length, for instance, considerable savings could be made in hatchery operation costs by stocking fish of that size instead of holding them until they are five or six inches long.

If returns from two-inch plants are exceptionally low, it might make more economic sense to hold the trout in hatcheries until they are five or six inches long.

Vondett said the department has made very few mid-summer plants in trout lakes and is anxious to learn how successful stocking at that time of year may be.

Mobile X-ray To Visit Delta

The Michigan Department of Public Health mobile chest x-ray unit will come to Delta County this month in a "mop-up" x-ray program because of the many unsatisfactory x-ray films in the August survey.

MRS. WILMA THORSEN, right front, renders assistance to "victim" Suzanne Shirk as other student nurses aid other "victims" in the background (Daily Press Photo)

Practical Nurses Get Practical Training

—BY DAVE ANDREWS

The girl on the lawn had a softball-size bruise on her leg which appeared broken.

Nearly, blood flowed freely from a gaping wound on a woman's neck and another woman moaned "Help me, please help me" as she realized her left arm was gone at the elbow.

The victims of a tornado were strewn about the grass, all suffering from serious injuries and eight of them in critical condition.

And to the eight students from the Practical Nursing class at Bay de Noc Community College the injuries were as real as they swung into rapid action Friday morning on the surprise emergency "problem."

The 17 victims on the lawn were other members of the class, carefully "injured" with paints and theatrical makeup minutes before by members of the teaching staff and Jack Romstad, Escanaba's premier drama coach.

The uninjured students were told simply to take care of them.

"Get the seriously injured first," said one of two men in the class who took charge as the leader.

"That's good," said Mrs. Donald Goulais, director of the program. "Someone should take over as the leader to avoid confusion."

Under the watchful eyes of their instructors — Mrs. Goulais, Mrs. Joanne Good and Camille Robitaille — the students set about the task on the north lawn of the college. Of the eight critically injured, the group "lost" only one when a severed artery on an arm wasn't attended to rapidly enough.

"The victim would have bled to death," Mrs. Good said.

"They did a pretty good job overall," said Mrs. Goulais in evaluating the exercise. "They had a patient in hysteria and they calmed her down and put her to work. That's real good."

Mrs. Goulais said the practice exercise was set up at the end of a week's classroom work in medical self-help and family survival under the Civil Defense program. The class was told there would be a "problem" this morning, but not given any indication of what they would be required to do.

She pointed out, for example, that a previous problem dealt with a nuclear disaster and fallout protection.

Working with materials on hand, not specially prepared medical supplies, the students gave first aid for broken limbs, severe lacerations, skull puncture wounds, electrical burns and other mock injuries, including shock.

Stretchers were made quickly from jackets, bed spreads, blankets and other materials using scrap lumber and tent poles for support and the victims were taken into a temporary emergency center in Room 10 of the college.

All were treated and moved within an hour of the first response.

The 25 students in the class began their training last March. They will complete the year's course in March, 1968.

By then, Mrs. Goulais said, the classroom work plus the experience gained working at St. Francis Hospital will make them valuable members of the community.

"It's nice to know that someone has had some training for this type of thing," she added. "You never know when it might be needed."

Helping Our Cities

Our Northern cities are being put to new tests of ability to cope with competition for municipal growth. This means, basically, competition for jobs, which in turn means businesses or industries.

The chambers of commerce were created to perform this function of organizing community cooperation for growth, but they are without substantial financial resources in most communities and so local government is being increasingly involved in economic development and it is using public resources increasingly to implement development.

The Southern states started this trend. They lacked resources at the local level to finance new industries or expansion of existing industries, so they used the state's credit to offer attractive financing to industries that would locate in Dixie.

This effort was substantially successful and made the Northern states develop competitive programs. Michigan's industrial development revenue bonding act is one of the efforts to compete with the South for new jobs.

The bonding act permits a local government to lend its tax free bonding authority to an industry in financing a new facility that creates a public benefit. (The tax free gimmick is good for a fraction to about one percent of interest annually, the Michigan Department of Commerce estimates.)

Modern industry is very complex. It borrows money for long periods in large sums. It has long term equipment leases. It has research and development of product lines to keep current; labor contracts, sales programs. All these must be fitted together into an economic bundle that produces profits if the industry is to prosper and survive.

Any community dealing with a sizeable industry must have representatives who understand the prospect industry's problems almost as well as it does itself; or at least that believe the industry when it says that it has problems. (They all do.)

Industries used to make their decisions on plant location on almost the sole basis of what could be done with their own resources in a given community. That's not generally true any more. Even big ones look for local assistance. Even if they don't need help with financing an expansion they like the idea that the community is enough interested in their welfare to be partners of some kind and they expect this attitude to carry over into their general relations with the community.

Evidence of this new, broad, deep venture of local government into economic enterprise is everywhere. This week Ansel Co. loaned its executive plane to a group of Marinette Development Corp. leaders to fly to Memphis to try to complete a deal for location of a Holiday Inn in Marinette. The community acquired and razed the old Downtown Hotel in Marinette to avoid use of its site in the heart of the city for yet another gasoline station.

The city government plunged into the venture up to its neck, with Mayor Ed Woleske leading the charge. And then, with the site cleared, the project bogged. The community marshaled its forces to get it back on the track. The point here is that the local government involved itself financially in a private enterprise project.

The situation has many U. P. parallels.

We have been forced to depart our well-defined old line between private enterprise and local government and never the twain shall meet. Both have crossed the line and joined in many new partnerships. They raise some questions and some apprehensions, but they are here in hard fact and must be dealt with.

The community whose leaders do not believe in this new concept of use of municipal resources to bolster the economy comes under a serious disadvantage today. The competition for industrial growth is so intense today that cities which choose not to compete for it aren't apt to get much of it.

We have departed our old acceptance of the thought that the economy is a natural thing that grows wild and not from seeding, cultivating and harvest. The needs of communities today for increasing amounts of taxes for education, public facilities and services is so acute that sharp towns have established commando groups that embody elements of local governments, chambers of commerce, industrial foundations, banking and education to be sure that every prospect for community growth gets thorough wooing.

"It's Congress' Answer to the Jet Age!"

Tolls Everywhere, Including Michigan

By DAVE BURGIN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—You're a tourist from Nebraska visiting the East and you want to make the four-hour drive from the nation's capital to New York, the place Mayor John Lindsay calls Fun City.

Easy enough. You just fill up the old buggy at the friendly gas station, load the kids and split.

Forget it. A sea-oned long-distance driver knows better. After you've shelled out five bucks for gas, take out another five and get a pocket full of change to pay the tolls.

Unless you've got an extra $4.55 to go with the gas money, you simply can't get to New York from here.

Similarly, you can't get from Boston to New York without toll money. You can't go from Washington to Richmond, Va., or from Richmond to distant points south.

There are like situations all over the country, particularly in the northern Midwest, the West and Northwest.

Of course, one can take the "back" roads, but then the driver must contend with more miles, congested municipalities and defeating his purpose: more gas money.

"They've got you coming and going!" comes the time-worn lament.

As for New York, there is virtually no way to drive into the city from any direction without paying a bridge, tunnel or expressway toll.

Using the Washington-New York drive as an example, the airlines, bus companies and railroads suddenly are competitive with private transportation.

The car trip costs roughly $10 in gas and tolls. (This does not include money for stops, which means higher prices at franchised, limited-access highway restaurants and even money for restrooms.) The same bus trip costs $7.50; the train is $10.75 and the 50-minute air shuttle is $15.

This is the 225-mile Washington-New York trip by toll: Thirty-five miles out of Washington, 50 cents for the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel. The next 75 miles needs $1.30 total for Maryland and Delaware toll roads. Next, 50 cents for the Delaware Memorial Bridge into New Jersey. Next, $1.75 for 120 miles on the New Jersey Turnpike. Finally, at least 50 cents by any one of four routes onto the island of Manhattan.

Congressmen have received enough complaints from constituents across the nation that they are now asking the same questions the housewife has been asking hubby for years: "Dear, where does all this toll money go? Won't this bridge (road, tunnel, ferry) ever be paid off?"

And now two House Public Works subcommittees have reported to Congress that toll money is being diverted to other projects, such as airports and art centers.

In the special report to Congress, the subcommittees questioned whether the practice of diverting tolls imposes "an undue burden on the motorists on top of the $30 million a year which travelers along the major toll routes pay merely to have tolls collected.

The report also pointed out

Bridge

Michigan's highway system is composed of freeways, but the link between the two peninsulas of the state at the Straits of Mackinac is a toll bridge. It costs $3.75 to cross with a passenger car.

The fee at the International Bridge between the American and Canadian Saults is $1.25.

that nearly one-tenth of the $6.6 billion in highway-user taxes (this doesn't include tolls) collected by the states each year is applied to other projects.

"But diverted tolls have become so financially entangled," a subcommittee member said, "that to lift them on roads and bridges already paid for in an area like New York City or St. Louis would invite fiscal chaos."

Once again, it raises the confrontation between federal control and state rights. The government now has a say only on tolls where federal highway grants are concerned.

"If the states continue to plan new tolling as well as keep old tolls," the subcommittee report warned, "the alternative is to witness the gradual assumption by toll authorities of the destiny of our highways."

The report was careful to acknowledge, however, that many states have taken tolls because "uncertainty" over the availability of federal money stood to delay urgently needed roads and bridges.

Meanwhile, John Q. Public, in his shiny new automobile, is finding it more and more expensive to "see America first"—especially if he's headed for places like Fun City.

And once he gets there, where does he park?

INCOME TAX CREDITS

My hat's off to a candid report on Income Tax credits in your editorial of Sept. 12th. You stated the enlargement of our state income tax is already in process before the first returns have been collected.

The revenue department forms make allowances for individual exemptions but have no provisions for property tax, rent, or local income tax credits as was promised before its adoption and the net result is that two thirds of the three million taxpayers will ask for refunds next year in vain as the only basis for refunds will be excessive withholding and we can go fly a kite for anything other than that.

If it was not such an economic slap in the face it would be amusing the way our governor and all his little helpers charge the Johnson administration with a credibility gap and then turn around and fool the citizens of Michigan like this.

The credibility gap in the State of Michigan also reared its ugly head during the last election when we were informed that Mr. Romney balanced our budget.

If we hold this to be the truth it brings up an obvious question: What happened to that 100 million dollar surplus we had in our treasury?

I suppose we could blame this on the mean old Democrats for passing bills in excess of income but that brings up another obvious question. What ever happened to our governor's veto power to prevent this excessive spending?

My math is far from the educational level of our lawmakers, but I do know one thing. If I had $5,000 in the bank and I claimed that I had balanced my budget for two years, at the end of that time I would still have $5,000, plus interest. Five choice words can be used to sum up our state income tax situation: "What fools we mortals be."

Dear Ann Landers: Summer is nearly over, but I would like to say a word to parents who may not be paying much attention to their children because they think they are nice, normal kids.

I was a playground instructor for 10 weeks. Playground instructors have very little authority over the children. Almost every day playground equipment disappeared, acoustical tiles were knocked out of the ceilings and carried off, class projects were stolen before the paint had a chance to dry. It is impossible to watch every child every minute and I never believed it was necessary—until I became a playground instructor.

Please tell parents to keep an eye on what their children bring home. If a kid turns up with a "strange" ball, bat or other sports equipment, he should be made to take it back. Kids who are allowed to keep things they have carried off get the idea that it's perfectly all right to do so.—BUG-EYED AT WHAT KIDS WILL STEAL

Dear Bug: Thank you for your letter. Small acts of dishonesty when ignored encourage more daring acts. Take heed, parents.

Dear Ann Landers: "Philadelphia Gram" prompts this letter. She is the woman who sent her grandchildren cash for birthdays and Christmas and never received an acknowledgment.

My niece and nephew were extremely negligent about letting me know they received my gifts. Sometimes their mother would write, "Oh, by the way, the kids sure liked their Christmas presents." One day when they were visiting I told my sister I was getting tired of wondering if my gifts had arrived. She snapped, "Oh, get with it. Thank-you notes are out of style." (The children were present.) I told her AND the children that thank-you notes weren't out of style as far as I was concerned and that I wasn't going to send anything else until I heard from them.

That was several years ago, and they have never failed to write and thank me for every gift since we had the understanding. We have a much warmer relationship now and

I have not only their love but their respect, as well.—AUNT MARGARET

Dear Aunt: You did those children a bigger favor than you may realize. Burning in silence is no way to improve a situation. I am a strong believer in setting the record straight. Often people don't know how you feel until you tell them.

People should not have to drag their tinny along when they go to the woods or to the seashore or to a fishing camp. A vacation should be a vacation. If one were to follow your advice, it would be appropriate to substitute the bulletin announcing the title of the sermon with a sign reading "Fashion Show Begins at 11:00 a. m." How dumb can you get?—MADISON, WIS.

Dear Mad: If you'll wipe the foam off your mouth and listen, I'll repeat. Nobody said church goes should dress to the teeth. I said it is in poor taste to go to church barefoot, in bathing suits, shorts and bikinis. Got it straight?

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Frank Kelley if use of the word "confiscate" in an amendment to the State Vehicle Code means the state can seize license plates from motorists. Hark asked for a working definition to be used in administering the bill, which provides for tougher punishment for motorist guilty of driving while under suspicion or revocation.

Expert's Plans Go Down Drain and another diamond later to ruff out West's jack or he could take a finesse against that jack, but South was an expert on the squeeze play and he saw a cinch squeeze if East would hold five spades and the jack of diamonds.

East proceeded to show him about the five spades. He led the queen and continued after South and West ducked. South took the second spade and noted the fall of West's king.

Then South proceeded to run off all his trumps. With one trump to go, West was down to the jack of hearts and two diamonds, dummy to the ace of hearts and ten of hearts and East to the jack of spades, king of hearts and eight of diamonds.

The last trump lead collected those three hearts and South was back right where he had started. He knew everyone's distribution. He did not know who had the diamond jack and when East followed low to the diamond lead, South rose with dummy's ace and paid off.

One of the penalties of being a good bridge player is that you look mighty silly when you work out a complicated play that goes wrong.

South, a good bridge player, wasn't going to let East and West shut him out of his nice club suit. He considered trying three no-trump but didn't relish the prospect of going down several tricks if he had to give up a club. Hence, his four-club bid.

North was happy to raise to the club game. As anyone can see, South has 10 top tricks at either no-trump or clubs but this South managed to work out a play for down one.

He won the heart lead and played his ace of clubs to account for all adverse trumps. Then he led his queen of diamonds and let it ride to East's king.

This left him two plays for his contract. He could play

Mount Pleasant Mystery: Who Gives The Cash?

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — The mysterious Mount Pleasant money man has struck again.

He claimed his latest victim, a 33-year-old bachelor college professor.

At least 11 persons have been visited by the money man so far, but none seems particularly upset.

The money man isn't stealing. He's giving it away.

"It's kind of weird, isn't it?" said Police Chief Harold E. Haun. But, said Haun, since it's no crime to give money away.

"We are not investigating it. We're only kind of watching it."

Eleven people so far have reported finding envelopes containing $2 and $10 in ones or fives in their mail boxes, under their car windshield wipers or at their doorsteps.

The money man's moves came to light when radio station WCEN broadcast a story one of its employees, Jan Phelps, women's program director, found an envelope with $5 in it in her mailbox Tuesday.

J.M. Hughes, WCEN news director, said 10 other persons since have called the station declaring similar finds.

From the eleven cases, Hughes said this much is known about the money man's M. O. (modus operandi).

Each envelope contains two inscriptions, "Today may be your lucky day," and "Good luck in the future."

The address, but not the name, of the recipient is typed neatly on the envelope.

Milk Production Decline To Halt, Economist Says

The early fall market report from Dr. John Ferris, agricultural economist at Michigan State University, indicates a decrease in cow numbers, but a leveling off in milk production.

Ferris reports that an expanding demand for beef will probably boost cattle prices next year, and unfavorable wheat prices will likely continue.

Milk cow numbers in Michigan declined by 5 per cent between June 1966 and June 1967. This is a greater drop than average for the past 10 years, but less than the 7½ per cent decline between June 1965 and June 1966. The current decline in milk production in Michigan did level off somewhat in July and August with total state output about 5 per cent under the year before. Favorable milk-feed price ratios in prospect for the coming year will likely halt the decline in production for the state.

Feeder prices have continued firm. Stronger slaughter prices, favorable range feed and pasture conditions, and a depressed corn market add up to a well maintained feeder market this fall.

Rocky, Romney, Reagan Meeting Chances Slight

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Chances for an expected Romney-Rockefeller-Reagan meeting next week appeared dim today.

All three Republican governors are scheduled to attend the same conference in San Francisco on financial difficulties in their states' medical aid programs for the poor.

But California Gov. Ronald Reagan's press secretary said Friday schedule difficulties prevented Reagan from setting up a meeting with Michigan Gov. George Romney and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

All three are mentioned as potential Republican candidates for president next year, although Reagan and Rockefeller say they will not run.

On Wednesday, Reagan will open the conference—which he called—then fly to southern California for a series of speeches, appearances and a meeting Friday of the University of California regents.

Rockefeller will address the conference Thursday. Romney is expected to attend Friday sessions.

Aides said Reagan wanted to arrange a luncheon or dinner for the three, as a courtesy, but their schedules prevented it.

15 On Committee Block Tax Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration faces the prospect that any tax increase may be permanently bottled up until deep spending cuts or other concessions to congressional opinion are forthcoming.

Fifteen of the 25 members of the House Ways and Means Committee say they will not under present circumstances vote to send a tax increase measure to the House floor, an Associated Press survey disclosed Friday.

The committee has complete control over initiating tax legislation.

Want Spending Cuts

For most of the dissenting members, the price of support was stated as major spending cuts—substantially greater than the $2 billion figure mentioned by administration officials—or Tax Code revisions to eliminate what members regard as special privilege for some industries and individuals.

The administration has promised tax revision recommendations, but just when they will reach Congress isn't known.

The budget-pruning forces have the potent backing of Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who contends a mere tax increase with Vietnam and domestic spending still rising will solve nothing, but will permanently reverse the trend toward lower taxation, set by the 1964 and subsequent tax cuts.

Match Tax And Cut

Mills and others have talked about dollar-for-dollar matching of tax increases with expenditure cuts. The tax increase would raise an estimated $7.4 billion.

The production index jump—following reports of record retail sales in August and a drop in unemployment to 3.8 per cent—appeared in line with the economic surge forecast by the administration.

Ford And Union Counties Urged To Back U.S. 2

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers will resume new contract negotiations Monday, but there is no indication a quick end is likely to a nationwide UAW strike against Ford.

Neither the union nor the company would hazard a guess Friday on when the 10-day-old walkout may end. Both expressed hope it wouldn't be long but neither gave any indication they were near settling the issues that have been debating since July 11.

Not a single contract item yet has been initiated by the two sides to make it binding, as was the case when the UAW walked out at Ford plants in 25 states Sept. 6.

Fifth Grade Orchestra Classes Begin

Escanaba Area Public School String Instructors, Robert Chase and Mrs. George Embs, have announced that enrollment of fifth grade class students will begin Monday.

Parents are to inform their children that group testing of interested boys and girls will be done in all of the elementary school buildings.

The school orchestra is a growing program and the school owned rental instruments are at a minimum.

Gladstone Home Robbed Of $300

Gladstone police today were investigating a breaking and entering and reported theft of about $300 and two bottles of whiskey from a residence in Gladstone.

Officers declined to identify the victims of the theft, however, and refused to disclose any details of their investigation.

hill, R-Va., said, "I do not intend to vote for a tax increase until we get assurances there will be an equal reduction in non-essential federal expenditures."

Declaring he had steadily opposed the increase, Rep. James B. Utt, R-Calif., added: "If the President were up here lobbying to reduce these programs instead of lobbying to increase them, I'd be willing to go 50-50 with him."

Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and other officials were reported to be conferring, but Schultze turned away newsmen's questions.

Wait LBJ Move

The committee meets in closed session Tuesday. Members predicted it will mark time, waiting for a move by the administration.

Johnson has asked a 10 per cent income tax surcharge. He contends it's necessary to meet Vietnam war costs and to combat inflationary pressures his economic experts say will begin rising in the last half of this year.

Their predictions appeared to be at least partially vindicated Friday by a report showing U.S. industrial production took its biggest jump in 15 months during August.

The Federal Reserve Board said its index of industrial production rose 1.3 points to 158 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. That was exactly the same percentage as a year earlier.

The production index jump—following reports of record retail sales in August and a drop in unemployment to 3.8 per cent—appeared in line with the economic surge forecast by the administration.

MSU Appoints An Ombudsman

LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University students will get someone to take their gripes to, but the rest of Michigan's citizens won't, because a state official thinks they already have one.

MSU has appointed Dr. James D. Rust, an English professor, to act as ombudsman for the students.

An ombudsman, a Swedish term, is someone you go to fight red tape, bureaucracy and official foot-dragging.

Albert Lee, Michigan auditor general, says he's looked into the idea of having an ombudsman for the state and has concluded he already acts in that capacity.

"For practical purposes," Lee said, "I'm Michigan's ombudsman now. If there were another, we'd be stepping on each other."

Lee said his 70-man staff makes sure public money is spent the way the Legislature wants it spent and checks state agencies to see they operate efficiently, effectively and economically.

"We handle citizen and other complaints," he added, "and know exactly who to see and where to go."

Plant Less

Michigan wheat growers, unhappy over the lowest prices in years, should plant less wheat this fall if they are to expect a reasonable return for their efforts next year. That's the advice of the Michigan Farm Bureau, whose board of directors has issued a statement cautioning wheat growers to practice self-restraint this fall, lest they plant themselves into another gloomy low-price corn next harvest time.

Egypt's Deposed Army Head Dies, A Poison Suicide

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's former No. 2 man, blamed by President Gamal Abdel Nasser for Egypt's war loss to Israel and later accused of plotting against Nasser, has killed himself with poison, the government said Friday.

It said Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer attempted suicide Wednesday, soon after he was told he must face a special investigation tribunal, and—after one dose of poison was pumped out of him—succeeded in taking his life Thursday night.

The official announcement, nearly 30 hours after Amer died, said he already had been buried in his native village of Menia, 200 miles south of Cairo.

Amer, 47, had been extremely close to Nasser. His daughter married Nasser's youngest brother and Nasser's second son was named for Amer.

The field marshal commanded Egyptian forces in two wars against Israel, last June and in the 1956 loss to the Jewish nation. He fought the Israelis as a division staff officer in the 1948 war, also a defeat for Egypt.

Amer rose to his high military position soon after he and Nasser and a handful of other army officers, overthrew King Farouk in 1952. He later became Nasser's first vice president.

"Amer's death, despite everything, was a source of deep grief for President Nasser, who regarded him for the past 30 years as a companion in arms, friend and brother," the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

It eulogized Amer as "a mortal...who tried to do his duty in the best way he knew."

Mrs. J. Rochon Taken By Death

Mrs. Joseph Rochon, 81, of Hermansville died at 2:15 p.m. Friday at the Anderson Memorial Hospital in Norway where she was a patient for two days.

The former Jennie Ayotte was born June 20, 1886 in Ishpeming and she was married to Joseph Rochon in 1903. She had resided in Hermansville for the past 70 years. Mrs. Rochon was a member of St. Mary's Church.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Harry Paquin of Hermansville and Mrs. Anthony Polcik of Bark River; six sons, Charles, Alex, Delore, Wilford and Uldage of Hermansville and Henry of Waukegan, Ill.; two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Dubey of Miraloma, Calif., and Mrs. Elizabeth Laakot of Stephenson; 32 grandchildren and 36 great grandchildren also survive.

Friends may call at the Kell-Tondin Chapel in Spalding after 3 p.m. Sunday and the parish Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Funeral services will be conducted at 8:30 a.m. Monday at St. Mary's Church with Rev. Gervase Brewer officiating. Burial will be in the Meyer Township Cemetery.

After Israel captured nearly all of Egypt east of the Suez Canal, Amer resigned as vice president and army commander June 9.

He and about 50 other senior officers, blamed for the fold-up of Egyptian defenses, ended up out of the army.

They were scheduled to be court-martialed before the end of September on charges of plotting to force Nasser to drop all charges against them and reinstate them fully. Ali Khashaba, Egypt's deputy minister of national guidance—propaganda—told a special news conference Friday.

The plot charges against Amer were revealed Sept. 4 in Al-Ahram after rumors had circulated for several days that Nasser had begun a purge to nip a possible attempt to overthrow him.

Sources close to Amer's family indicated he swallowed a cyanide pill, apparently smuggled to him by a confidant.

Injured Driver Escapes Flames

Jack R. Grenfell Sr., 38, of Rte. 1, Escanaba, escaped a fiery death but was seriously injured early this morning when his car burst into flames after it ran off U.S. 2 and 41 in Memory Lane and struck a tree.

State Police of the Gladstone Post said Grenfell was westbound out of Escanaba shortly after 3 a.m. when he lost control of his car on wet pavement.

Grenfell suffered head lacerations, burns of his right shoulder, arm and hand, and possible internal injuries, but escaped the car as it was consumed by fire. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital by ambulance where he was reported in serious condition.

Troopers said the accident happened about 1.9 miles west of the intersection with M-35. The car, a 1964 model, was destroyed. Escanaba firemen extinguished the blaze.

Halt Bombing, Urges Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U. Thant said today he believes it would be worth the risk for the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam without any prior commitment of de-escalation from its Communist regime.

Thant told a news conference at U.N. headquarters he still believes "meaningful talks" would follow such a cessation within three or four weeks, but that lacking an end to the air attacks there would be no use in his pursuing new initiatives.

The secretary-general said he had suspended his own initiatives because there had been no halt in the bombing.

"I am hopeful that new peace initiatives based on the principles of the (U.N.) charter will be seriously considered by all members of the United Nations."

The secretary-general discounted reports that there was anything new in the way of gestures from North Vietnam toward an approach to talks or settlement.

"I am convinced there will be meaningful talks within three or four weeks if the bombing is halted."

Rheumatic Heart Effort To Perk Up Prevention

The Michigan Heart Association, the Michigan Department of Public Health, and the School of Public Health of the University of Michigan have organized the Michigan Rheumatic Fever Study, and appointed Dr. Walter G. Parker, a 34 year old pediatrician, principal investigator.

The study, with offices at 343 S. Main St., Ann Arbor, will review and assess programs to promote primary prevention of rheumatic fever as well as the state's secondary rheumatic fever prophylaxis service.

Primary prevention is accomplished by large scale testing of children with sore throats, using laboratory analysis of samples of throat swabs, for the presence of streptococci germs which are the only known cause of rheumatic fever. Proper antibiotic treatment will kill the germs and prevent the fever. The state's prophylaxis service consists of giving recovered rheumatic fever patients, all highly susceptible to repeated attacks of the fever, free antibiotics.

One of the serious consequences of some rheumatic fever attacks is damage to the valves of the patient's heart. Called rheumatic heart disease, this is one of the larger killers and cripples of children and young mothers.

Although rheumatic heart disease is entirely preventable, there are, in addition to an undetermined number of unreported cases, more than 1,200 new cases reported to authorities every year.

Are New Packers Better Than Last Year's Club?

By The Associated Press
The National Football League opens its 48th season Sunday with a new member, a new alignment and an old, old story—the Green Bay Packers are expected to win it all again.

Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, the hard-running backs who powered the Packers attack for a decade, are gone. But, if anything, Green Bay seems even deeper and quicker than a year ago when they won their second straight NFL title and the first Super Bowl.

They'll open their quest for a third straight tie—and fifth in seven years—at home against the Detroit Lions, who will make their regular season debut under new coach Joe Schmidt.

The new team, the New Orleans Saints, will play their first regular season game at home against the Los Angeles Rams.

The rest of the NFL schedule, all Sunday afternoon, has Dallas at Cleveland, Atlanta at Baltimore, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Washington at Philadelphia, San Francisco at Minnesota and New York at St. Louis.

The American Football League in its third week of play, has Houston, 0-1 at Buffalo, 1-0; Boston, 0-2, at Oakland, 1-0, and Denver, 1-1 at Miami, 0-0, also all Sunday afternoon.

Hornung has retired from the Green Bay backfield, and Taylor now is with the Saints after playing out his option, but their places are filled with younger and faster men. They include veteran Elijah Pitts, bonus babies Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, veteran Ben Wilson and rookie Travis Williams.

Pitts and Grabowski are expected to start in the backfield along with quarterback Bart Starr, the league's most valuable player in 1966.

Most of the rest of the team is the same. The only change in the offensive line has Gale Gillingham at guard, on defense end Lionel Aldridge is out for another three weeks with a broken leg.

The Packers have won 13 straight going into the game, including six exhibitions.

Schmidt, the old Lion linebacker, has not announced his choice of a starting quarterback, but Karl Sweetan is expected to get the nod over veteran Milt Plum. Schmidt has a potential star in rookie running back Mel Farr.

Both teams are in the new Central Division, along with Chicago and Minnesota. The Coastal Division has Atlanta, Baltimore, Los Angeles and San Francisco; the Capitol is made up of Dallas, New Orleans, Philadelphia and Washington; the Century has Cleveland, New York, Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

The Saints, the NFL's new team, will have Taylor at fullback and Billy Kumer at quarter for their regular season opener. Coach Tom Fears compiled a sparkling 5-1 pre-season record with the expansion team.

Los Angeles, which provided the opening opposition for Atlanta in its home debut last 1966, again opens against a new team. The Rams ready to challenge the Green Bay supremacy, had their first winning pre-season record in history even though holding out ace runners Tommy Mason and Dick Bass until the final game.

Dallas, Eastern Conference titlist last year, could have its hands full with Cleveland, which looked good in its last exhibition game. Leroy Kelly showed his 1966 form with 81 yards on the ground.

The Falcons have a new look with Ron Smith moving from defensive back to flanker to give quarterback Randy Johnson more speed in his receivers. The Colts have a healthy, strong Johnny Unitas, but rookie tackle Bubba Smith is out with a knee injury.

Gale Sayers, of course, is the big Chicago threat, but the Bears' quarterback situation is up in the air. The Steelers are pleased with Cannonball Butler's development as a running back and have good speed in rookie Don Shy.

The Washington-Philadelphia game shapes up a passing duel between veterans Sonny Jurgensen of the Redskins and Norm Snead of the Eagles. The Eagles have added strong receivers in Mike Ditka and Gary Ballman.

Bud Grant makes his debut as an NFL coach with the Vikings after 10 years in Canadian football, but has an injury-riddled squad to send against the 49ers. Quarterback John Brodie had a good exhibition season for the 49ers.

The Giants have picked up Fran Tarkenton from the Vikings and have Tucker Frederickson back after a year's injury absence. The Cardinals pin their hopes on Jim Hart, who will start at quarter, even though Charley Johnson, on pass from the Army, will be in uniform.

Finley To Tell Baseball Plans

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The long rumored attempt to move the last place Athletics out of Kansas City came further into the open Friday when Joe Cronin, president of the American League, announced he would call a meeting after the World Series to hear a proposal from Charles O. Finley, the A's owner.

This development followed by a day delivery of a telegram from Finley to the city fathers that he did not intend to renew his lease on Municipal Stadium which expires Oct. 15.

And Cronin's announcement paralleled one by Dutton Brookfield, chairman of the sports authority here, that he had sent Finley a proposed lease agreement on a new 45,000-seat stadium for which bonds have been voted and which can be completed in about two years. The new stadium would be one in a two-stadium complex, one for football and one for baseball, either of which can be covered by a sliding roof in inclement weather.

Finley, who steadfastly refused to comment throughout the season on his intentions or his attitude toward the new stadium complex, has had a management firm studying the Kansas City situation, and those in Seattle, Wash., and Oakland, Calif. Cronin's announcement said Finley had written him that the results of the surveys would be ready for consideration by other league owners Oct. 1.

Lions First Packer Test

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The all-conquering Green Bay Packers, seemingly even deeper and quicker than a year ago, begin their bid for a third straight National Football League crown Sunday when they meet the Detroit Lions in a season opener.

The Lions haven't lost an opening game since 1960 and will be making their official debut under new head coach Joe Schmidt.

But the Packers haven't lost a game in their last 13, including last season's NFL title contest with Dallas, the Super Bowl with Kansas City and six exhibition games this summer.

Gore are their long-time backfield stars Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung but installed in their place are a faster and younger crew that includes the veteran Elijah Pitts, bonus babies Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, veteran Ben Wilson and talented rookie, Travis Williams.

Grabowski, who is expected to start in a backfield that will also include Pitts and the NFL's Most Valuable Player, quarterback Bart Starr, averaged five yards per carry in the exhibition season.

The Packers are seeking their fifth title in seven seasons. Should they succeed, they would be the first team since the NFL went to a playoff system in 1933 to win three successive crowns.

Sports In Brief

NEW BOSTON (AP)—Friday's football opener at Hudson High School in New Boston wasn't as a result of the defeat at the polls of a school millage proposal Tuesday. But students have scraped up $700 from class treasures, enough to get things underway for the Sept. 29 game against Carlton and are planning a number of money-making drives to raise the more than $2,000 needed to carry the team through the rest of the season.

DETROIT (AP)—Bobby Richardson, a former second baseman for the New York Yankees, will address the annual convention of the Michigan Sunday School Association Oct. 7 in Cobo Hall. Richardson was with the Yankees 12 years and played in seven World Series.

Joe Horlen Pitches Three-Hitter As Sox Make Up Precious Ground

By The Associated Press
Joe Horlen has everything back in the proper perspective and the Chicago White Sox are beginning to see the light again.

Horlen, the near-sighted Chicago ace who pitched a no-hitter last Sunday against Detroit, held Minnesota to three hits Friday night as the White Sox gained precious ground in the American League stretch race with a 7-3 triumph over the Twins.

Shortstop Ron Hansen backed Horlen with four hits, including a pair of homers, and four RBI in the White Sox' third straight victory—which sent them within 1½ games of first place and helped create a three-way tie at the top between Minnesota, Boston and Detroit.

The Tigers, who rallied for a 5-4 victory over Washington, the Red Sox, who bowed to Baltimore 6-2, and the Twins, all are 84-64 with 14 games remaining. Chicago has an 83-66 mark with 13 games to play.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees downed Cleveland 5-1 and California shaded Kansas City 2-1 in 11 innings.

In National League play, Los Angeles swept a pair of 1-0 decisions from Philadelphia. St. Louis shut out Cincinnati 4-0. San Francisco defeated Pittsburgh 6-3 and the Chicago Cubs clubbed Atlanta 7-1. Houston and the New York Mets were not scheduled.

Horlen, who had been wearing glasses while pitching for the last two years, discarded the specs recently—with spectacular results for the White Sox. He has allowed just two runs in reeling off three straight victories—including the no-hitter—for a 17-6 season record.

A walk, Rod Carew's infield hit and a throwing error by Hansen gave the Twins a 1-0 lead in the second inning. But Hansen's two-run single and a run-scoring single by Horlen sent the Sox ahead to stay in the bottom of the second and the Twins didn't get another hit until the ninth.

Then Harmon Killebrew doubled with two out and Oliva unloaded his 15th homer. "I wanted to get the one-hitter," Horlen said. "I've never had one."

"I was tired in the ninth and Killebrew just conked the ball pretty good. Then all I wanted to do with Oliva was make him hit the ball, but he hit it too darned well."

Frank Robinson drove in two runs with his 29th homer and a sacrifice fly as the Orioles capitalized on the wildness of Boston starter Dave Morehead for an early 4-0 lead. Moe Drabowsky replaced winner Tom Phoebus in the seventh and protected the rookie's 13th victory in 21 decisions.

Mickey Mantle collected three hits and drove in two runs, leading the Yankees against Cleveland. Leon Wagner's run-scoring single off winner Steve Barber in the third ended a string of 29 scoreless innings for the Indians, who were shut out by the White Sox in their previous two starts.

Don Mincher doubled with two out in the 11th inning and scored on Rick Reichardt's single, carrying the Angels past Kansas City. George Brunet and winner Bobby Locke checked the Athletics on six hits.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

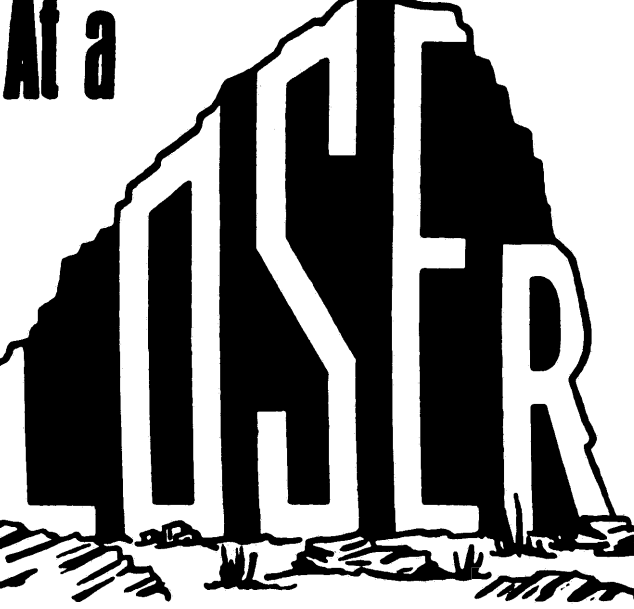

. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Here is an example of a one-sided battle! It's that same old battle between the irresistible force and the immovable object.

Study the rounding edges of this massive granite formation. The wind is winning—persuasively and very definitely.

Note the deep clefts where chips have fallen from the old block. Rain, snow, ice are the victors here.

And see the pines growing topside on this barren bulk. Each year their roots press deeper into the hidden fault.

What does this prove? Well, for one thing it shows that the lifeless rock is no match for the moving, living, growing forces in God's creation. So never overestimate the strength of that stubborn secularism that sometimes appears to dominate our world.

In worship and religious pursuit, millions are linking their souls with the vital spiritual forces which shall prevail!
